REGULAR meeting of Concord lodge No. 69, I. O. O. F., to-night at 7:30 o'clock.

FOR the week ending October 4th, there were eleven deaths in the city. Several of these were children.

MR. JOHN H. HOWE, JR., is dangerously ill with malarial fever. His recovery is considered to be very doubtful.

"SHEMINI AZERETH." Conclusion of the feast. Services at the synagogue this evening, at 7:30; Thursday morning at 9:30.

BOOKKEEPERS desiring to obtain a good position should answer advertisement of Martin & Thompson, in the want column.

WESTERN STAR LODGE, No. 2, meets to-night in their new hall for special work. All Masons in good standing are invited.

GEORGE FULLER, who stole eight bales of cotton from the Churchill place, will not engage in the staple trade again very soon.

MR. H. G. SUMMERFORD, formerly of the St. Louis saloon, is now state agent of the lightning copying-book and a celebrated letter file.

A COLORED excursion from Fort Smith, numbering about two hundred individuals, including a brass band, arrived in this city last night.

PROF. B. F. UNDERWOOD, the celebrated unbelieving lecturer, of Boston, has been secured by the branch in this city of the National Liberal league, to deliver a course of six lectures, in the opera house, commencing November 11.

A CARLOAD of German immigrants will go up the Fort Smith road to-day. There is no part of the state improving more rapidly than the section through which this road runs, and it can all be attributed to the energy of the road's managers.

A MISSIONARY meeting will be held in the Bethel A. M. E. church, corner of Ninth and Broadway, at 7:30 o'clock to-night, when addresses will be delivered by several distinguished visitors, who are now in attendance at the A. M. E. Convention.

J. Morris Chester, of Louisiana, R. Fasseb, G. M., and D. B. Bomser, G. S., are expected to be among the speakers.

A VERY severe accident happened to Mr. Simon Cohn's wife the other night. Going out of the house and approaching a window, from which she was in the act of taking a pan, the cellar-door, on which she was standing, gave way, precipitating her into the cellar.

Her injuries were very painful, but yesterday she was much better, evincing the fact of a speedy recovery.

The 22d of this month will be the anniversary of the Dillon and Pfeiffer fall from Floral hall at the fair grounds. There is not much in this event to commemorate, especially as no good resulted. Yesterday when Mr. Pfeiffer was asked if he did not intend to give a banquet as a kind of anniversary feast, he replied that he would if the banqueters would pay his doctor bills.

MR. OVERHOLSER, who fell from his new building some time ago, and who was thought could not recover from the injuries sustained, has very nearly recovered. This, aside from any disposition to "puft," is due to the superior skill of Dr. Dibrrell. When nearly all of a man's bones are broken, and a physician "mends him," it is but just to give of so skillful a piece of surgical work.

An information was filed by the district attorney in the United States circuit court yesterday morning, charging James W. Jackson, late postal route agent on the Memphis and Little Rock railroad, with the crime of embezzlement. The defendant appeared in court and by his counsel, Rice and Bishop, and upon his plea of guilty, was sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor for one year and one day at the house of correction, Detroit, Mich.

The convention of the United Order of Odd Fellows met in representation hall, this city, yesterday. There was never a more intelligent body of colored men. Selected from all parts of the United States, they have a different bearing from that which characterizes political assemblies. This afternoon at 2 o'clock, Grand Master Redmond Faucette, will deliver his annual address. Every one is invited to attend.

THE Presbytery of Arkansas convenes for its fall session at Searcy on the 18th of October, and the Presbytery of Ouachita at the Carolina church, in Clark county, on the same day, both at 10 a. m.

The Synod of Arkansas, comprising the above two Presbyteries and the Presbytery of the Indian territory, will meet at Washington, Hempstead county, the Thursday following, on the 22d inst. The usual railroad convention is expected to be granted to all delegates.

FIGHT WITH FELINES.

A Boy Almost Torn to Pieces by Cats that Attack Him.

He Finally Succeeds in Killing His Enemies and Marching Triumphantly Away With Them.

Several days ago, we published an article from the Dardanelle Arkansian, giving an account of a bulldog attacking and almost tearing a couple of children to pieces. Such a course from a bulldog is not surprising, but the following, given us by Mr. George Harrison, of Polk county, is something aside from the usual line of animal ferocity.

Several mornings ago, a boy about fifteen years old, a nephew of Mr. Harrison's, an inmate of his family, went out to the barn to feed the horses. When he entered the loft, he discovered two large cats lying on the straw asleep. Boy like, he took up a bundle of fodder, and creeping up, struck both of them at one blow. There was something of a disappointment in the result. The cats, instead of running away, sprang at the boy with a fury that startled him.

Nothing with which to defend himself, the boy tumbled around while the cats squallied, clawed and bit him unmercifully. The boy's cries did not bring assistance, and of course realizing the fact that it might prove fatal to delay desperate efforts, the boy sprang toward the ladder leaning against the rafters, and ascended to the roof of the house. The cats followed him, and, despite his efforts to keep them away, bit and clawed him frightfully. Reaching the ladder, he jumped down on the hay. The cats followed him. By this time he was bleeding very freely, and his coat was almost torn into threads. Seizing one of the cats by the hind legs, he attempted to beat it to death against the wall, but the animal doubled around and began tearing at his arm, and he was obliged to let it go. The animal followed him. Just as he reached the ladder, he discovered a monkey-wrench lying on the floor. Seizing it, he turned, dealt the foremost cat a blow between the eyes, and before it could recover, smashed its head. The other animal was not rendered less ferocious by the death of its companion, but fought with fury. With a heavy blow the boy stretched out the remaining feline and beat out its brains. Catching them by the tails, he marched to the house, gave his best to his mother. When he entered the house, ragged and bleeding from almost every inch of his body, holding two large cats by their tails, the astonishment of the uncle and terror of the aunt were what you might call boundless.

The boy has been confined to his bed since the encounter, and his physicians say that his recovery is doubtful.

MEDICAL COLLEGE.

Formal Opening Yesterday—Remarks from Gov. Miller and an Address from Superintendent Denton.

The medical department of the Arkansas Industrial University was formally inaugurated yesterday with interesting and appropriate ceremonies.

At about 11 o'clock a large assembly, embracing some of the most distinguished citizens of the state, met in the main hall of the beautiful college building, on Second street, to witness the exercises of the occasion, consisting of addresses by Gov. Miller and Superintendent of Police Instruction Denton.

Gov. Miller's address was a short extemporaneous speech, but embodied much good sense and many wholesome suggestions. The governor congratulated the faculty on the inauguration of their noble undertaking, and hoped and believed it would be liberally supported, and in time reach the proportions of a great and prosperous institution. The following is a synopsis of Mr. Denton's address:

He expressed regret at not having had time for the formal preparation demanded by so important an occasion, and hoped that his willingness to contribute his mite to the cause of general progress would atone for any failure in appropriate matter, or any awkwardness in its presentation. He said he had stepped from the busy whirl of official duty to lend an approving smile and drop a few words of encouragement. He could see no good reason why the Industrial university might not have a medical department in our beautiful City of Roses, so justly and widely celebrated for its salubrious climate and its beautiful scenery. He had no patience with the army of pale-faced dyspeptics who growled their protest against every forward movement, who persistently disparaged the ability and resources of the state and wasted their time in evil prophecies. He insisted strongly on keeping abreast of the progress of the age; said the powerful demand was upon us; that we could not ignore it without incurring lasting disgrace and irreparable loss. He counseled the killing of that pernicious heresy that we could do nothing, and the equally hurtful one that other states could think of us as they pleased, and if people did not want to come here, they could stay away. He said that the hope of the state was in wiping out illiteracy from all the professions and vocations, in building immigration, in building railroads and factories, in felling the dark forests, and dragging to light the rich mineral deposits that lie concealed under the ribs of our mountains. He emphasized the indispensability of intelligence over wealth, in the theology, medicine, law, agriculture, mechanics and domestic economy—all the way from mortal astronomy. He quoted from an eminent author: "Efficiency is vastly more important than the mere reduction of expenses." He painted a number of historic pictures bearing on the question, and hung them framed before the mind. He affirmed that the tendency of all education was in the direction of utility; that educated fools and helpless geniuses were at a fearful discount; that they did not know what to do with themselves, and what to do with them. He quoted from a speech of Gov. Vance to the effect that he was beset by scholarly men, who were so utterly helpless that they were begging for any employment that would put bread in their mouths. He warmly hung the language of President Everett: "Education is a better safeguard of liberty than a standing army. If we retrench the salaries of teachers we must raise those of the recruiting officer." He said the right to vote carried with it the right to know how to vote. He said the winding sheet of liberty. He told the gentlemen of the faculty that they might prepare for opposition; that no career was honorable without it; that no institution had ever become strong and venerable without the sacrifice of free management, and an indomitable will would conquer all obstacles. The flat of Napoleon had the ring of victory: "There shall be no Alps." The address was interspersed with wit and humor, with occasional flashes of oratory that illuminated the whole field explored by the speaker.

PINE FIRM.

Men Who March in Front of Demand.

When a man comes to this state it is not long before he becomes acquainted with the name of Ottenheimer & Brother. There are many causes for such a speedy acquaintance. Enterprise is the main cause; the dealing manner. Some men have started out with large capital and have spent years and years vainly trying to work up a reputation, for their trade is a certainty. More than half of this number fail. The Ottenheimers almost from the first sailed into the smooth sea of recognition. The superiority of the goods, together with the above "fair dealing," are the parents of this child. Their store in the Equitable block, Main street, is the most magnificently arranged. The large front room up stairs is assigned to carpets. They have a kind of "show room" on the second floor, the "editors." Back from the long carpet room, is situated the trunk department. They have an excellent line of trunks. You might call it a grand trunk line. Down stairs is the place that will dazzle you. Front is where dry goods and ladies' furnishing goods are kept. Here you can find everything in that line, and so cheap, and of such superiority that you will at once be convinced, "I must buy something." The back room, down stairs, is devoted to clothing, hats and gentlemen's furnishing goods in general. Here, too, you will find it to your advantage to purchase.

In short, summing up the whole, after a "concise" detail, there is no establishment of general merchandise in the south that is more commercially conducted.

BOY BEATEN.

A School Teacher Cruelly Whips a Boy With a "Cowhide."

"I want to show you my boy," remarked Mr. F. Sitke, last night, and turning to a boy about twelve years of age, said: "Pull up your pants and show those cuts."

The boy complied. On one of his legs were several red ridges, and on the other where the laces had been done with a dull instrument. The entire section of the limb was black and blue, as though the child had been beaten with a club.

"What did that?" "My teacher," replied the boy; a modest child, so modest so that he can hardly be classed as the characteristic small boy.

"Who is your teacher?" "Mr. Marquart. He teaches in the German Lutheran school. He whipped me with a cowhide because I turned my head away and not answer a question."

If any man were to beat a horse so inhumanly, even though the horse had tried to kick him, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals would have him arrested. The days when it was considered a part of the early morning devotion to "whip" the society out of a boy are over, and if this boy's statement is true, Mr. Marquart should be arrested. The affair should be investigated. The boy is not only painfully, but seriously injured.

VALUABLE ACQUISITION.

The Arkansas school for the blind just received by express a set of the "Book Sizer Anatomical Models," price $120, purchased with the balance of a donation made to the institution, some years ago, by the late George S. Birnie, of Fort Smith. These beautiful models will be invaluable in teaching the blind anatomy and physiology. Though the donor has gone to rest his generous gift will long live to bless the blind. Will not others imitate his noble example?

STATE FAIR.

Yesterday's Meeting of the Board of Directors.

The board of directors of the State Fair association met, pursuant to adjournment, yesterday forenoon. Present—Messrs. Hughes, Cotton, Rottaken, Murphy, Pfeiffer, Cox, Sevier, Thompson and Pemberton. President Hughes in the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Mr. Nauk asked permission to sell his goods while on exhibition at the fair grounds. The board decided it could not be allowed, as it would establish a bad precedent.

It was moved that the issuance of season tickets be referred to the executive committee. Agreed to.

Mr. Pfeiffer moved that, in the event the fire department participated in the parade, they be furnished horses free of cost, which motion prevailed.

Mr. Murphy moved that Mr. Cotton be appointed a committee of one to see what number of transfer companies, and see what number of teams they would furnish for the parade of Monday.

Also, that Mr. Dillon be requested to call upon the different livery stables for stock, and see what number of private vehicles, and request them to join in the parade, and that the committee report at the next regular meeting, which was carried.

Mr. F. T. Vaughan, who was appointed to visit St. Louis in the interest of the State Fair association, reported that his trip was exceedingly successful; that great interest was manifested in our fair; that quite a number of exhibitors from abroad would be here, and not less than a dozen fast horses would contest in the trotting ring—among others "Sucker Maid," of Indiana, with a record of 2:24; Windsor, of Canada, with a record of 2:24, and a whole lot of green horses with no record, but reputed very fast.

Mr. Vaughan moved that the secretary collect the money for all privileges sold, and report to the executive committee at 11 o'clock on Saturday next, and all remaining unpaid shall be declared forfeited, which was agreed to.

On motion the board adjourned to Tuesday next at 11 o'clock a. m.

THE IRON TRADE.

Iron & Hardware Trade.

OWING TO THE VERY UNDESIRABLE condition of the iron market, and the fact that the iron is so rapidly consumed in our line, it is impossible for us to make prices to hold good for any length of time. We, therefore, adopt this method of notifying our customers that the price will be filled at lowest figures ruling at the time of shipment. We will further state that all our wares we guarantee. St. Louis prices considered. Our stock is on hand in full, and all orders will be executed with a little delay, as possible. Respectfully,

FONES BROTHERS.
